

DIAZ, JR., DESCRIBES ATTACK ON TRAIN

Story of Flight of Deposed
Ruler and Family.

NOW ON THE WAY TO EUROPE

Mexicans at Havana Show Loyalty
in Farewell to Ex-President Diaz
Leaves Harbor for Spain—National
Air is Played and "Viva Diaz"
Shouted from Hundreds of Throats.

Havana, June 4.—While Francisco I. Madero was receiving the plaudits of the Mexican people today on his way to the Mexican capital, Abram Gonzalez, governor of Chihuahua took a few plaudits himself by accepting an invitation of Americans to make an excursion to their guest to Cloudcroft, N. Mex., a summer resort near El Paso.

In the absence of the governor one of the keno games opened at Juarez and an American saloonkeeper opened his door every time an American from El Paso stepped three times and showed the proper look of astonishment. The usual bull fight also took place in Juarez. Gen. Gonzalez has received information that it will be best for him not to come to the city of Chihuahua to take charge of his office until all federal troops have been removed from Mexico City.

When the steamship left its anchorage Diaz and his wife and the latter's arms filled with rare orchids, stood on the captain's bridge and received farewells from hundreds of loyal Mexicans crowding the main cabin below.

Again the Ypiranga's band played the Mexican national air, as it had done when Diaz came aboard at Vera Cruz, and the final notes were drowned by rising shouts of "Viva Diaz" from those in pleasure boats and passengers on the steamship. Some more enthusiastic Mexicans shot off day fireworks from a point ashore, and the air was filled with red, white, and green paper parachutes.

Senor Pasalodos, secretary to President Gomez, of Cuba, headed the official delegation which boarded the steamship to say farewell. Among the company were the Mexican consul, consuls of several Latin-American states, a representative of the government of Havana, provisional and municipal officers, and prominent Mexican residents.

Held Formal Reception.

Diaz and his wife and Col. and Mrs. Porfirio Diaz Jr. held a formal reception in the saloon. Diaz, who had appeared aged and infirm during the voyage from Vera Cruz, showed again his remarkable mastery over physical infirmities, and was as vigorous in appearance and speech and action as any man in the party of visitors forty years younger.

Now that he is well on his way to a distant land, perhaps the soldierly modesty of Porfirio Diaz, Jr., will not suffer strain if his story of the night flight from Mexico City and the bloody war with the rebels attempting to hold up the ex-President's train en route to Vera Cruz is repeated.

Much that was wild and inaccurate concerning this dramatic incident was sent out from Mexico City and Vera Cruz, and the story told by "Porfirio Chico" on shipboard two days ago is the only authentic version of the story of the old ex-President's long chapter of hot activity in Mexico.

Women Make Appeal.

The escape, if such it may be called, from Mexico City to Vera Cruz was decided upon only after Diaz's stubborn refusal to leave the city was successfully combated by the appeals of the women of his household. It was only during the two wild nights of rioting in the capital that Diaz gave his consent, and then the details were hastily arranged by the officials of the Intercontinental Railroad, the only line open to Vera Cruz.

The hurried packing in the President's darkened house, Calle Cadena, with the howl of the mob sounding outside, was complicated by the fact that the mother of Porfirio Diaz, Jr., was the mother of a ten days' old child, yet she arose from her bed and helped direct the packing. The refugees reached the station by a dash through the throngs of automobiles at 11:15 in the morning. The train left at 4.

Great Precaution Taken.

A pilot engine preceded and then went an engine with two express cars filled with infantrymen of the Eleventh Regiment with two machine guns. After that came Diaz's special train and another short train was filled with the crack regiment of engineers to do repair work if necessary.

"Attack was not unexpected," says Porfirio Diaz, Jr., in recounting the adventure. "The rebels had been holding up trains daily at certain points near Oriental, in the state of Vera Cruz, and we expected them to hold up ours. At 10 in the morning, after we had passed Oriental and were going very fast on the down grade from the plateau, the rebels stopped the pilot engine."

"Just as they were inquiring of the American engineer what train was following the troop train pulled up. Within a word of parley, the men of the infantry threw back the doors of the express cars, thrust the muzzles of the machine guns through, and began to sweep the close ranks of the rebels at very short range; at the same time the infantrymen poured out of the cars and took up a line along the track. They began to shoot just as our train slowed down just behind the troop train."

"The instant that the firing began my father told the women and children to lie flat on their faces, which they did. The nurse with my new-born infant did as the others. The children cried a little, but they were brave and lay quiet. Then father and I got off the train and walked forward to see the disposition of the soldiers. I saw that my father flourished a revolver. He was unarmed."

"The troop train behind came to a stop in a few minutes, and the Zapatistas got into formation and engaged. Most of the rebels were mounted when the attack was commenced, but after the machine guns threw them into confusion they fell off their horses and hid behind numerous magnolia plants. Maybe there were 200 of them, and in five minutes work of the machine guns they broke from cover and fled. It was all over and we resumed our trip in fifteen minutes."

Porfirio Diaz, Jr., did not tell what the American engineer of his train whispered around Vera Cruz afterward, which was that with the rifle of one of the soldiers Porfirio Diaz, Jr. killed the leader of the rebels, who was mounted and riding hard at 300 yards. Col. Diaz is counted the best rifle shot in Mexico. Twenty-eight rebels and one federal were killed.

Limastrous in This Country.

St. Louis, June 4.—Jose Yves Limantour, the deposed Minister of Finance of Mexico, left here today for New York, where he will board a steamer for Europe. Limantour, who was whether or not he would meet ex-President Diaz, who sailed for Spain to-day from Havana. All he would say was that he was out of politics for good.

In time of peace the average annual death rate of the armies of the world is less than one to every hundred men.

INSURRECTOS WILL REMAIN IN SERVICE

Readjustment of Mexican Troops Being Made.

El Paso, June 4.—While Francisco I.

Madero was receiving the plaudits of the Mexican people today on his way to the Mexican capital, Abram Gonzalez, governor of Chihuahua took a few plaudits himself by accepting an invitation of Americans to make an excursion to their guest to Cloudcroft, N. Mex., a summer resort near El Paso.

In the absence of the governor one of the keno games opened at Juarez and an American saloonkeeper opened his door every time an American from El Paso stepped three times and showed the proper look of astonishment. The usual bull fight also took place in Juarez. Gen. Gonzalez has received information that it will be best for him not to come to the city of Chihuahua to take charge of his office until all federal troops have been removed from Mexico City.

When the steamship left its anchorage Diaz and his wife and the latter's arms filled with rare orchids, stood on the captain's bridge and received farewells from hundreds of loyal Mexicans crowding the main cabin below.

Again the Ypiranga's band played the Mexican national air, as it had done when Diaz came aboard at Vera Cruz, and the final notes were drowned by rising shouts of "Viva Diaz" from those in pleasure boats and passengers on the steamship. Some more enthusiastic Mexicans shot off day fireworks from a point ashore, and the air was filled with red, white, and green paper parachutes.

Senor Pasalodos, secretary to President Gomez, of Cuba, headed the official delegation which boarded the steamship to say farewell. Among the company were the Mexican consul, consuls of several Latin-American states, a representative of the government of Havana, provisional and municipal officers, and prominent Mexican residents.

Held Formal Reception.

Diaz and his wife and Col. and Mrs. Porfirio Diaz Jr. held a formal reception in the saloon. Diaz, who had appeared aged and infirm during the voyage from Vera Cruz, showed again his remarkable mastery over physical infirmities, and was as vigorous in appearance and speech and action as any man in the party of visitors forty years younger.

Now that he is well on his way to a distant land, perhaps the soldierly modesty of Porfirio Diaz, Jr., will not suffer strain if his story of the night flight from Mexico City and the bloody war with the rebels attempting to hold up the ex-President's train en route to Vera Cruz is repeated.

Much that was wild and inaccurate concerning this dramatic incident was sent out from Mexico City and Vera Cruz, and the story told by "Porfirio Chico" on shipboard two days ago is the only authentic version of the story of the old ex-President's long chapter of hot activity in Mexico.

Women Make Appeal.

The escape, if such it may be called, from Mexico City to Vera Cruz was decided upon only after Diaz's stubborn refusal to leave the city was successfully combated by the appeals of the women of his household. It was only during the two wild nights of rioting in the capital that Diaz gave his consent, and then the details were hastily arranged by the officials of the Intercontinental Railroad, the only line open to Vera Cruz.

The hurried packing in the President's darkened house, Calle Cadena, with the howl of the mob sounding outside, was complicated by the fact that the mother of Porfirio Diaz, Jr., was the mother of a ten days' old child, yet she arose from her bed and helped direct the packing. The refugees reached the station by a dash through the throngs of automobiles at 11:15 in the morning. The train left at 4.

Great Precaution Taken.

A pilot engine preceded and then went an engine with two express cars filled with infantrymen of the Eleventh Regiment with two machine guns. After that came Diaz's special train and another short train was filled with the crack regiment of engineers to do repair work if necessary.

"Attack was not unexpected," says Porfirio Diaz, Jr., in recounting the adventure. "The rebels had been holding up trains daily at certain points near Oriental, in the state of Vera Cruz, and we expected them to hold up ours. At 10 in the morning, after we had passed Oriental and were going very fast on the down grade from the plateau, the rebels stopped the pilot engine."

"Just as they were inquiring of the American engineer what train was following the troop train pulled up. Within a word of parley, the men of the infantry threw back the doors of the express cars, thrust the muzzles of the machine guns through, and began to sweep the close ranks of the rebels at very short range; at the same time the infantrymen poured out of the cars and took up a line along the track. They began to shoot just as our train slowed down just behind the troop train."

"The instant that the firing began my father told the women and children to lie flat on their faces, which they did. The nurse with my new-born infant did as the others. The children cried a little, but they were brave and lay quiet. Then father and I got off the train and walked forward to see the disposition of the soldiers. I saw that my father flourished a revolver. He was unarmed."

"The troop train behind came to a stop in a few minutes, and the Zapatistas got into formation and engaged. Most of the rebels were mounted when the attack was commenced, but after the machine guns threw them into confusion they fell off their horses and hid behind numerous magnolia plants. Maybe there were 200 of them, and in five minutes work of the machine guns they broke from cover and fled. It was all over and we resumed our trip in fifteen minutes."

Porfirio Diaz, Jr., did not tell what the American engineer of his train whispered around Vera Cruz afterward, which was that with the rifle of one of the soldiers Porfirio Diaz, Jr. killed the leader of the rebels, who was mounted and riding hard at 300 yards. Col. Diaz is counted the best rifle shot in Mexico. Twenty-eight rebels and one federal were killed.

Limastrous in This Country.

St. Louis, June 4.—Jose Yves Limantour, the deposed Minister of Finance of Mexico, left here today for New York, where he will board a steamer for Europe. Limantour, who was whether or not he would meet ex-President Diaz, who sailed for Spain to-day from Havana. All he would say was that he was out of politics for good.

In time of peace the average annual death rate of the armies of the world is less than one to every hundred men.

Brings Fruit in Cold Storage.

New York, June 4.—The steamer Voltaire, from South American ports, arrived here today with the first importation of South American fruit in cold storage. It consisted of twenty-five cases of grapes and seventy-five cases of oranges. The fruit was stored in cold air chambers having a capacity of 500 cubic feet. The fruit will be sold to-morrow on the fruit exchange.

WAGE REDUCTION THREAT OF GARY

Head of Steel Trust Discusses Cut in Prices.

REGRETS BREAK IN HARMONY

Tells Manufacturers that Big Corporation Is Willing to Play Fair with Its Smaller Competitors. Favors Complete Understanding and Publicity Among Steel Men.

New York, June 4.—"Do not forget that the employees of the corporation have more at stake than the employer when questions of reducing prices below what is reasonable and fair are considered."

"You have no right to run the risk of being compelled to put their wages below what they ought to be unless you are driven to it. I hope that whatever may happen as a result of present conditions you will not reduce the wages of your employees until you feel an absolute necessity to do so."

In an address to the Steel and Iron Manufacturers of America at the Metropolitan Club in this city a week ago, and now made public for the first time, Judge Elbert H. Gary, of the United States Steel Corporation, made these remarks.

The luncheon was held for the purpose of discussing the recent cut in steel and iron. Among other things Judge Gary said:

"I hope when we find what policy the administration in Washington has settled upon for the governing and controlling of the great business interests of this country, that we steel and iron men in this country, instead of being found in opposition to that general policy which is calculated to be of benefit to the people of the country, will line up with the administration, and give a position foremost in the ranks of those who, in a patriotic way, are attempting to do what they can for their fellow-men."

do not care whether it is a Federal incorporation act the lawmakers will determine upon or what it may be, if it is reasonable or if it is determined by the administration or the lawmakers to be reasonable, let us occupy a great position in the activities of business life—let us take a leading part in doing our best to bring about an improvement in the conditions which surround us."

"Now we are confronted with a very serious and disagreeable problem. We know that one of the leading iron and steel companies hitherto joining in our councils, learning from our intentions, our business, our methods, our clients, our customers, everything of benefit and interest for one to know concerning his neighbor, has suddenly, for reasons it is regarded as wise to keep secret, withdrawn from the present at least it is not desirable to co-operate with us. If I believed the reason was that the officials of the company had reached the conclusion they had no right, from the standpoint of law or good morals, to continue, I would be the last one to criticize."

No Wrong Intended.

"I would not expect or ask any one to do anything he believed wrong, legally or morally; but, on the other hand, gentlemen, if any one who has been co-operating in a lawful way, not in secret, but under conditions well known and frequently exposed by all of us, suddenly changes his opinion and believes it is for his pecuniary interests for the time being to withdraw from associating with us, and declines to share with our intentions, our business, our methods, our clients, our customers, everything of benefit and interest for one to know concerning his neighbor, has suddenly, for reasons it is regarded as wise to keep secret, withdrawn from the present at least it is not desirable to co-operate with us. If I believed the reason was that the officials of the company had reached the conclusion they had no right, from the standpoint of law or good morals, to continue, I would be the last one to criticize."

Lincoln's Friend

IS DEAD IN HOME

Taught Elocution at Yale for More than Fifty Years.

New Haven, Conn., June 4.—Prof. Mark Bailey, who was for fifty years instructor in elocution at Yale, died at his home in New Haven last night, aged eighty-four years. He was one of the first teachers of elocution in the United States. Bailey was born in Lumberton, N. H., and was graduated at Dartmouth in 1849 and became instructor of elocution at Yale in 1850, and for half a century taught there until he was retired on the Carnegie Foundation.

In the late '50s, during the Lincoln-Douglas debate, Bailey was a close associate of Lincoln, and during his travels from town to town was often with Lincoln in his coach.

He is survived by a son and a daughter.

Baltimore in Front.

Boomed as the Scene of the Next Democratic Convention.

Baltimore, Md., June 4.—The Monocent City is being boomed as the place for the next Democratic national convention. It is pointed out that the Fifth Regiment "Army" is an ideal place for the gathering, as with twenty-four hours' work it could be made to accommodate 12,000 persons.

It is admirably adapted to the plan used in the St. Louis hall, which is claimed to have been the best convention hall ever occupied by a national political party.

Because it is the "gateway to the South" and rich and large enough to easily accommodate any crowd that may gather within its bounds, Baltimore presents a bold front in the fight now being waged for the selection of the next national convention.

THE PRODIGAL JUDGE

"The Prodigal Judge" runs the scale of human emotions from treble to bass. In humor, wholesome; in romance, as delicate as the odor of magnolias; in action, as tense as the 'G' string of a banjo. The story grips."

By Vaughan Kester. Pictures by Brighier. $1.50 net.

THE CRESS MERRILL COMPANY.

BOURNE SCORES CRITICS OF JUDICIARY RECALL

Says Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson Reflected on Integrity of American People and Judges by Opposition to Popular Government.

By their objections to the application of the recall to the judiciary, Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Gov. Woodrow Wilson reflect upon "the integrity and intelligence of the American people and the integrity and courage of the judiciary," according to Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., of Oregon. Senator Bourne says the application of the recall to judicial officers can have no greater influence over them than is now wielded by political bosses and their backers, the campaign contributors.

"With deep regret I have read reports of criticisms made by Gov. Woodrow Wilson and Col. Theodore Roosevelt against the recall as applicable to judicial officers," said Senator Bourne, in a statement issued by him yesterday. "They fear that if judges are made subject to recall they will lose their independence and permit their opinions and official actions to be influenced by their political interests. If that is true, then judges now permit their decisions and official actions to be influenced by desires for re-nomination, re-election, or promotion. If a judge will permit his official actions to be influenced by fear of the recall, he already permits his actions to be influenced by the political boss and his backers, the campaign contributors. I challenge Gov. Wilson and Col. Roosevelt to deny it. The objection of these two eminent gentlemen is not so much a criticism of the recall as it is a reflection upon the integrity and intelligence of the American people and the integrity and courage of the judiciary.

"Some individuals assume that the people proceeding under the recall act from passion and prejudice, and without reason. It has been common to refer to popular action under the recall as 'mob rule,' losing sight of the fact that no officer can be recalled without a majority vote. To refer to the majority of the people of a State acting deliberately in a recall election as 'mob rule' is an unwarranted insult to the American electorate. Nowhere in American history can there be found a single instance in which the people, acting under fair election laws, manifested a spirit that can be called 'mob rule.'"

"In Oregon, where the recall is in practical operation, and where it applies to judges as well as to other elective officers, there has not been a single suggestion of recalling any judge, nor has there been any effort to recall any State or county officer, so far as I know. It has been applied in only two or three instances to municipal officers. We shall be more successful in accomplishing governmental reform if we adhere closely to facts and use arguments based only upon practical experience, rather than draw upon our imaginations to construct reasons against popular control of government."

OLDEST FREIGHT STATION ON EARTH TO DISAPPEAR

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has awarded a contract for extensive improvement at Frederick, Md., involving an expenditure of approximately $50,000, to Edward Brady & Sons, of Baltimore, the intention being to have the work started in about ten days.

The plan of improvement provides a thoroughly modern layout, which will give Frederick freight facilities equal to any city of its size on the Baltimore and Ohio system. The new terminal will be a marked improvement over the present freight facilities at Frederick, which have been inadequate for the city's business requirements and commercial development.

The plans provide for a modern freight house 200 feet in length and 40 feet in width, covered with corrugated iron, which will be equipped with rolling steel doors, making 50 per cent of the sides available for door opening. The new building will be located just north of the present freight house, which will be removed and which is the first railroad freight station built in the world.

Paraglyphs from Many Quarters

Wheeling, W. Va., June 4.—In the first annual sham battle between the boys' brigades of West Virginia and Eastern Pennsylvania, sixteen miles east of here, the Pennsylvania boys won after a two hours' battle.

Lafayette, Ind., June 4.—A resolution in 1912 was adopted by the Indiana Democratic Editors' Association.

Paris, June 4.—Dr. Elle Metchnikoff, the director of the Pasteur Institute, has started for St. Petersburg, on his way to Siberia to study the plague.

New York, June 4.—Gertrude Atherton, the novelist, arrived here on the Hamburg-American liner Amerika.

Lancaster, Pa., June 4.—George Watson, of Columbia, recently convicted of the murder of Isaac Makie, Jr., in Columbia, several months ago at a party, has been sentenced to be hanged.

London, June 4.—J. Peet, aged seventy, and Mrs. Peet, aged sixty-six, of Ruby street, Old Kent Road, S. E., who celebrated their golden wedding yesterday, live on an old-age pension of $125.

DEMOCRATS PROBE
THE SUGAR TRUST

Inquiry Will Begin in Washington This Week.

Another inquiry into the operations of industrial corporations will be set in motion this week by the Democrats of the House of Representatives. It will deal with the affairs of all concerns engaged in the sugar trade, with special reference to the activities of the American Sugar Refining Company.

At a meeting of the sugar committee held early last week organization was perfected, and subcommittees were appointed to lay the groundwork for the prospective inquiry. One of these subcommittees was instructed to examine the statute and make a report as to just how the committee may go in examining witnesses without the danger of according immunity to persons who may become involved in the proceedings instituted against the sugar trust by the Department of Justice.

The reports of the subcommittees will be presented to the full committee on Wednesday. Subpoenas will then be issued for sugar trust officials, and public hearings will be begun the latter part of this week or early in the following week.

According to Representative Hardwick, of Georgia, chairman of the sugar committee, the investigation will be in full swing by Monday, June 12, and hearings will continue in Washington as long as Congress is in session. The committee will hold sessions in New York, but the dates of these hearings have not yet been fixed. The chances are that the committee will not go to New York until the fall.

Democratic leaders look to the sugar committee to disclose a lot of interesting information. They are hopeful, of course, that Chairman Hardwick and his Democratic colleagues will be able to show that Republican administrations have not been as diligent in looking into the affairs of the sugar company as the circumstances warrant.

WOMAN SMOKES ON STREET.

New York, June 4.—A woman proceeded along Broadway, near Twenty-second street, Bayonne, to-day puffing a cigarette and followed by a crowd of jeering boys and girls. A policeman arrested her after making her throw the cigarette away. She described herself as Grace Saunders, aged thirty, of Hoboken avenue, Jersey City. Recorder Mara lectured her and sent her to the county jail for thirty days.

The Best Selling Book in America

As reported by the Publishers of the U. S. for the month from April 1 to May 1

THE PRODIGAL JUDGE

"The Prodigal Judge" runs the scale of human emotions from treble to bass. In humor, wholesome; in romance, as delicate as the odor of magnolias; in action, as tense as the 'G' string of a banjo. The story grips."

By Vaughan Kester. Pictures by Brighier. $1.50 net.

THE CRESS MERRILL COMPANY.

NIGHT LETTER
THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY
CABLE SERVICE TO ALL THE WORLD

DAY LETTER
THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY
PLANS OFFICES IN AMERICA & CABLE SERVICE TO ALL THE WORLD

SEND us a DAY LETTER and we will send you a DAY LETTER

Today's Business

Is done by the Western Union Day and Night Letter Service.

Many progressive, successful individuals and companies proclaim it a long step in the forward movement of economical business methods.

THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH CO.

NEWS OF ALEXANDRIA

Rev. U. D. Mooney Extended
Call to Pastorate.

Alexandria, Va., June 4.—Following devotional exercises, conducted by Elder A. G. Uhler this morning, the congregation of Second Presbyterian Church, with Elder George Wise presiding, voted unanimously to extend a call to Rev. U. D. Mooney, of Birmingham, Ala. The church has covered without a pastor since January 1 last, when Elder Joseph R. Sevier resigned to accept the pastorate of a church in Augusta, Ga.

The committee appointed to recommend a pastor reported that Rev. Mr. Mooney had been in Birmingham eleven years and had built up his present charge, a small and struggling mission when he went to it, until to-day it is one of the largest churches in the city. The formal call to the Alexandria church was sent to Rev. Mr. Mooney by mail this afternoon.

To-night the congregation of Bethany Independent Methodist Episcopal Church joined in worship with members of Second Presbyterian Church. The sermon was delivered by Rev. W. M. Potal, pastor of Bethany Church.

Stephen Woolis, a plasterer, who fell from an electric car at Spring Park, on the outskirts of the city, about 8:30 o'clock last night, and received a cut on the forehead and a black eye, has acquired the habit, according to employees of the railway company.

About two hours after his first fall, when he refused to go to the hospital and was patched up at his home, Woolis declined that he intended to go to Washington, and was soon on board the 11:15 o'clock car for that city. He had ridden only a few blocks when he again fell from the car to the street, and received another cut on the head. Dr. W. A. Warfield dressed the man's injuries and he was returned to his home.

Funeral services for Stephen G. Cowling, a retired Fairfax County farmer, who died Friday at the home of his nephew, John T. Harding, 102 South Alfred street, were held this afternoon. Rev. G. A. Luttrell, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, officiated, and interment was in Methodist Episcopal Cemetery at Lincoln, Fairfax County.

AMUSEMENTS.

BELASCO TO-NIGHT AT 8:20.
The Vagabonds
IN
THE CHRISTIAN
WITH HENRY MORTIMER.
NEXT WEEK—THE LOTTERY MAN

COLUMBIA TO-NIGHT, 8:15
THE COLUMBIA PLAYERS IN
"STRONGHEART"
THE PLAY THAT MADE
ROBERT EDSON FAMOUS.
Next Week—"Before and After."

CASINO
1 to 5 7 to 11 P. M.
ALL THIS WEEK
RUTAN AND HIS SONG BIRDS.
And Five Other Big Acts.
COMPLETE CHANGE OF SHOW
The Coolest Place in Town. Perfect Ventilation.

GLENN ECHO PARK
ADMISSION FREE
OPEN EVERY DAY, 1 TO 11 P. M.
EVERYBODY'S NAME
REAL FEATURE
51
AND THAT DANDY OPEN-AIR
DANCING PAVILION

4 BASEBALL 4
TO-DAY
P. WASHINGTON P.
M. VS. M.
M. DETROIT M.

COSMOS
CONTINUOUS VAUDEVILLE
AND PICTURES—1 TO 11 P. M.

A Poured Cement House.

CONGRESS FORECAST.

To-day in the Senate Senator Pomerehne, of Ohio, expects to speak on his resolution, introduced last week, instructing the Attorney General to proceed criminally against the defendants in the Standard Oil and tobacco trust cases.

The Lorimer case will again be to the fore, the Committee on Privileges and Elections probably deciding whether to delegate to a subcommittee the second probe into the election of the Illinois Senator or to have the whole committee conduct the investigation.

Hearings on Canadian reciprocity will end before the Finance Committee, and thereafter the committee will report the measure to the Senate, without any amendments. It is now believed.

There are only a few bills on the Senate calendar this week. The unfinished business in the direct election of Senators bill, which may come up to-day for further debate. Several speeches on the measure are on the programme for the week, and other Senators have signified their intention to speak on reciprocity.

The House does not meet until Tuesday. On that day Chairman Underwood, of the Ways and Means Committee, will present the wool schedule bill, and debate will probably begin the following day. The debate is expected to last ten days or more, after which the Democrats, by a strict party vote, will railroad the measure through the House.

On Tuesday Senator Root will tell what he knows about the Rosenthal portrait scandal to the committee investigating the State Department, he having been Secretary of State when somebody got $2,000,000 supposed to be paid to Artist Rosenthal for painting a portrait of former Secretary of State Day, now associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, but which the artist did not get. This matter promises to develop into one of the choicest scandals of the present administration.

Next Wednesday Judge E. H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation, will resume his revelations concerning the transactions of the alleged steel trust before the Stanley special committee.

Taken altogether, Congressional affairs during the coming week promise to be lively.

SEVERE STORM AT STAUNTON.

Many buildings, including a church, are unroofed.

Staunton, Va., June 4.—Wind, rain, and hail did much damage in Staunton this afternoon. Many houses, including the Church of the Brethren, were unroofed, trees blown down, and thousands of acres of glass broken. The street car system, street lights, and telephones are badly crippled. The storm seems to have been local. The rain was fairly needed.

DOLPHIN INQUIRY TO-DAY.

Sinking of Culper Fay Will Be Fully Investigated.

A court of inquiry will convene this morning at the Washington Navy Yard to make an official investigation into the recent collision between the dispatch boat Dolphin and the launch Culper Fay, which resulted in the sinking of the launch and the death of Alexander Yellowlees.

The members of the court of inquiry will be Commander Charles C. Marsh, president; Commander Archibald Davis, and Lieutenant Commander Adolph Althouse. Lieut. Charles E. Brillhart will act as judge advocate.

Made Instructors at Harvard.

Cambridge, June 4.—Hamilton Fish, Jr., a student in the Harvard law school, has been appointed an assistant instructor in government at Harvard.

Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., son of Justice Hughes, another law school man, will teach government. Both appointments go into effect next September.

A Good Julep

—Is a delicious summer drink when Old Gray Rye is used as a basis. This brand of straight Pennsylvania Rye sold to you from the original package. Just as it comes from the distillery warehouse at the $1 Full Quart; $2.50 Gallon.

TO-KALON WINE CO.
NEW YORK, 1405 F. ST. N. W.